

Winter camping prevention capsule

Follow these tips to reduce risk on your winter excursions

With the winter season in full swing, many will want to take a winter excursion.

With the sometimes difficult weather conditions, the risks can increase.

It is important to be well prepared and to have the appropriate tools and equipment.

Wear warm clothes and dress in layers

Have a place sheltered from the wind

Know the route back in case of an emergency

Know your GPS coordinates in case of need for rescue

In the event of an emergency, provide your location and GPS coordinates, prioritize sites that have road access or near a marked trail.

Your safety is important to us!
